

Truman State University Faculty Forum Presents

"THAT LIBERTY SHALL NOT PERISH"

The History of Truman State University's Collection of Great War Propaganda Posters

Propaganda posters provide unique opportunities for exploring the kinds of images and concepts that arouse the passions and influence the behavior of the public at any given time in history. To mark the centenary of World War I, Amanda Langendoerfer, Associate Dean of Libraries for Special Collections and Museums, and Jason McDonald, Assistant Professor of American History, recount the origins, preservation, and historical significance of Truman State University's extensive and impressive collection of propaganda posters.
